Scope and good faith

In scope: this website and the packages in the public repository. Please do not run denial-of-service tests, do not access data that is not yours and give reasonable time for a fix before public disclosure. Research done in good faith within these limits will not be the subject of complaints by the owner.

The website is static: it has no accounts, no forms that store data and no server-side code of its own. A machine-readable contact is published at `/.well-known/security.txt` (RFC 9116).
